Puno: DILG moved Smith late night to avoid traffic

By Norman Borborada

INTERIOR SECRETARY ROMALDO PUNO yesterday said it was his office that decided to hand over American Marine David Smith to US custody and this was in line with a Malabon decision to comply with treaty obligation, to which President Macapagal-Arroyo agreed "in principle."

Puno and Interior Undersecretary for Public Safety Mattias Corpus said that the transfer pushed through late in the night to avoid security complications in case the convoy leaving Smith had to go through heavy traffic between the central business district in Makati and the US Embassy compound in Manila.

"We wanted to reduce security threats from traffic problems. Also, it took some time to do the bilateral, operational and diplomatic coordination which started in

ABANDONED THROATERS: AN UTTERLY shameful act by people who are like 'thieves in the night.'

A new deal against the Filipino people, A stab in the back by no less than President Macapagal-Arroyo.

There were some of the vilest reactions provoked by the middle-of-the-night transfer on Friday of US Marine Lance Cpl. David Smith from a Makati jail back to the custody of the US Embassy despite his conviction on charges of raping a Filipino woman.

"Noble," the rape victim, said she heard about the transfer on midnight of Friday and it brought her to tears.

"Babang" Arroyo, in his by Japay-Sarapog (This is more really in your face shamelessness). All that they would defend was the relationship between the US and Philippines... Is this really how the Philippine government is? Only in the Philippines, I am so dismayed," said Smith, spilling out her anger in a mix of English and Filipino.

For the 21-year-old Filipino woman who was a historic rape case against Smith, getting up yesterday morning after hearing the news the night before was like waking up from a nightmare.

Former Senate President Jovito Salonga branded the government move to hand Smith back to the Americans as "a new deal and a shameful transaction."

Salonga, one of the country's most respected lawyers, said the victims of the government's giving in to US pressure were Smith and the country's justice system.

The new deal was clear against Puno and the judicial process, against Judge Benjamin Henson, also against the Court of Appeals. Salonga said

Saddam Hussein hanged

EXECUTED FOR CRIMES AGAINST HUMANITY: SADDAM HUSSEIN, 66.

Faced death without hood, with Koran

BAGHDAD—MOMENTS before he was hanged by the dawn's early light in Baghdad yesterday for crimes against humanity, Saddam Hussein refused to have his head hooded.

"He carried a Koran and said: 'I want this Koran to be given to this prison,' a man he called Bander," National Security adviser Mowaffik al-Babtain told state-run Iraqiyah television news.

A judge read the sentence to Saddam, who was taken in handcuffs to the execution room. When he stood in the execution room, photographs and video footage were taken, according to al-Babtain.

Sami al-Akkari, a political adviser to Prime Minister Nouri al-Maliki, said Saddam "was taken by force to the gallows [by several hooded men] but he was composed when he was executed."

Al-Akkari said the government had not decided what to do with Saddam's body.

It was a grim end for Hussein, 66, the shrewd-wary dictator who ruled Iraq with iron-fisted brutality for a quarter-century and was driven from power by a US-led war that left his country in shambles.

Longer television news reported that Saddam's half-brother Barzan Ibrahim and Awad Hamed al-Bakr, the former chief justice of the Revolutionary Court, also were hanged. However, three officials said only Saddam was executed.

The execution performance was a long and noisy affair, the first announcement said and had a tag on the screen that read "Saddam's execution marks the end of a dark period of Iraq's history."

President George W. Bush called Saddam the execution "the final justice he deserved the victims of his brutal regime."

Fate of dictators from Hitler to Saddam

BAGHDAD—BOMBS DIED IN OFFICE, still clinging to the reins of power, some—such as Saddam Hussein—were disposed and executed, while others spent the rest of their lives in exile or as fugitives from justice.

Here are the fates of some former dictators since the end of World War II in 1945.

DIED IN OFFICE:

● ADOLF HITLER. Gunshot, while in his Berlin bunker on April 30, 1945, shortly after Soviet Red Army forces entered the capital of his Third Reich.

● JOSEPH STALIN. Master of the Kremlin for more than 30 years, the Soviet Union's leader died of a stroke on March 5, 1953, after an all-night dinner.

● ANTONIO DE OLIVEIRA SALAZAR. Portugal's dictator for 36 years suffered a major stroke in 1968 and died on July 27, 1976.

● FRANCISCO FRANCO. The Spanish head of state known as "Generalissimo Franco" died on Nov. 20, 1975, of liver problems at the age of 83.

● MAO ZEDONG. The founder of the People's Republic of China and then its leader for 27 years, Mao died in Beijing on Sept. 9, 1976, aged 82.

● KIM IL-SUNG. The "eternal president" of North Korea ruled from 1946 until his death from a stroke in July 1994, when he was succeeded by his son

Do's, don'ts on fireworks for those who never learn

By Christian V. Eguerra

AS DECEMBER DRIFTS TO A CLOSE, each year, many parts of Metro Manila resemble a war zone after dark, reverberating to the repeated booms of fireworks which sound like heavy artillery.

The festive season celebrations will come hand in hand with deaths and injuries, many among children.

Before the New Year's Eve revelries could even kick off, police reported that injuries from the traditional crackling had already exceeded by 80 percent the recorded number when the country welcomed 2006.

Peaking the number of injuries could increase by tomorrow, New Year's Eve, Dr. Enrique Taying, the Department of Health's chief epidemiologist, has issued fresh warnings against fireworks and advised the public on what to do in case of accidents.

The public has heard all before but it bears repeating:

● Stop using fireworks and settle for safer alternatives like laser (jazz-jazz), Colibriets with concerts or parties, no with fireworks.

● If you must have pyrotechnics, go to specific locations in your community where professionals hold fireworks displays. The key word here is professional, meaning the show is handled by experts.

● Never use fireworks while under the influence of liquor.

● Always have water on standby. Firecrackers that don't explode should be

NEW YEAR'S MESSAGE

'New name for peace is dev't'

By Jerome Aboag

"THE NEW NAME FOR peace is development," Catholic Bishop Constantino of the Philippines President and Santo Domingo Archbishop Angel Laguarda told yesterday in his New Year's message. He said the key to ending the lives of the innocent is development.

"The promotion of development demands active participation and responsibility of government, churches, peace keepers and the entire nation," he said. "This is because peace is not a state of affairs, only a time of relative tranquility brought about by violence."

LAGUARDA

Peace and tranquility that also encompasses development.

For the peace, active participation for the millions born in the country has and continues to be the basis of modern, sustainable for the present and future better life and security and peace for all.

"It will be a better year when more and more of the marginalized and exploited are offered opportunities to work for and realize their permanent change, genuine health benefits, increasing education, dignified employment and above all, freedom," he added.

The Archbishop said that Jan. 1, for the past 50 years, has been observed as the World Day of Peace. However, he said, peace does not mean the mere absence of hostile intent and war, is the absence of violence and conflict.

Peace, as a moral imperative, "is brought about by justice, requiring respect for human dignity and human rights, the promotion of the common good by one and all, and the common practice of solidarity," the prelate explained.

He also recalled the late Pope John Paul II saying that "Peace is the fruit of love which goes beyond what justice demands."

Laguarda added, "We live there in words of justice and love in our different, our peace will be a permanent state. It is difficult, but together we can do it."

EU allots $2.6M for RP typhoon victims

BRUSSELS—THE EUROPEAN COMMISSION allocated Friday two million euros ($2.6 million) in humanitarian aid for victims of typhoons in the Philippines that have killed more than a thousand people since late September.

The emergency aid will help provide clothing, warm blankets, supplies, sanitation, food and medicine to injured survivors, the Commission, the European Union's executive body, said in a statement.

The Philippines-based European Development Council said Thursday that a series of typhoons in December had left more than 3,000 people homeless and injured.

Four typhoons towards the end of the year and a series of deadly earthquakes left at least 1,212 people dead and 1,899 missing and believed dead, the civil defense agency said in its annual report.

It said the total damage to agriculture and infrastructure from the typhoons was estimated at $720 million.

"Continuous rainfall in the affected area is further aggravating the situation and it is feared that the area cannot withstand the first rain season," the commission said.

The Philippines is one of the most natural disaster-prone countries in the world.

It is hit by numerous storms and typhoons each year, and sits in the Pacific "Ring of Fire," where major earthquakes occur, creating frequent seismic and volcanic activity.

Wildfires, poverty also forces large numbers of people to live in hazardous areas with no safety nets and leads to a high level of vulnerability to natural disasters.

the afternoon," Puno said.

"We considered Smith being in the night to help the Philippine and US governments agree on the place of discussion," Puno said.

"To use a DILG (Department of the Interior and Local Government) division," Puno said in a text message to the Inquirer.

Puno said his agency and the US State Department's legal division agreed on the place of discussion. The department of foreign affairs, justice and the interior should find the most appropriate legal division to comply with the existing laws and agreements with respect to Smith's custody.

"There was an approval in principle to find the appropriate mechanism to comply with the USA, and we decided that the most appropriate means was to comply with the state division," Puno said in a separate phone interview.

Puno noted that Assistant Judge Benjamin Ochoa, in his Dec. 4 decision, ordering Smith's release, ruled that the American had "used such force that the Philippine and US governments agree on the place of discussion" in accordance with the provisions.

Place of discussion

He claimed that when Puno, Secretary Alberto Fernandez and US Ambassador Leticia Starnes agreed on the place of discussion, it was decided that Smith would be detained at the house building to hold the US Embassy opening.

The agreement was signed by Puno and Starnes on Dec. 24 at the office that Smith would be detained at the house building to hold the US Embassy opening.

"The agreement signed by (Starnes and Puno) is meant to secure the Philippines that Smith would not be granted early release while he is detained at the interior building here," Ochoa said.

Ochoa has requested supervision over Smith, being in charge of the Bureau of Jail Management and Penology that oversees the Makabaja.

First time

"This is the first time they have allowed access to their premises services," said Ochoa.

Puno said the interior department on Friday completed the 25 building after receiving the Puno-Starnes agreement and the DILG opinion. However, Smith's transfer to US custody.

The DOJ opinion was signed by Assistant Secretary Rod Gonzales on Thursday.

"The question of whether the transfer of Smith to US custody was legally sound was left to the departments. So we went to the Department of Justice for a legal opinion," Puno said.

"We went through the DOJ opinion as the fact that the transfer was in full compliance with the current decision and we decided to push through with the transfer. This was already the opinion of our legal division," Puno said.

"It was a DOJ decision to comply with Puno's decision in accordance with the DOJ opinion," Puno said.

"We were just the implementer of the state decision. In accordance with our treaty obligations under the PTA," he added.

"The manner that the (Puno-Starnes) agreement was signed was already left to the right to have custody of Smith's health," Puno said.

Executive prerogative

He said Smith's movement happened close to midnight because a meeting for the US side required for Smith transfer as did the coordination between the Philippines and US authorities.

Gonzales said the DOJ received a copy of the Puno-Starnes agreement and the DOJ opinion, leading to his Friday afternoon.

Gonzales said that Assistant Secretary Gonzales believed the manner of Smith's transfer was "an exercise of executive prerogative in the conduct of his operations."

In a phone interview, Chief Presidential Legal Counsel Leoncio Flores Pacheco said the transfer of Smith happened under the PTA "apparently acted on the opinion rendered by Justice Secretary Rod Gonzales."

Secretary said Gonzales signed the opinion on Dec. 27 and released it on Dec. 28.

Starnes declined to give a copy of the full opinion but said only the two-paragraph conclusion which he said concerned Gonzales's stand.

DFA upholds legality

"In his conclusion, the reason for denial of the Makabaja Regional Trial Court has been to deny to the Philippine government the right to comply with the treaty obligation to give up extradition of an agreement signed by the DOJ Secretary when the judge has specifically named as having the authority to sign," said Starnes.

The Department of Foreign Affairs also upheld the legality of handing over Smith back to American custody.

"The Philippines is fully compliant with the treaty obligation," Puno said.

"It does not diminish the gravity of the crime for which he had been sentenced under our laws," Starnes said in a statement.

Court of Appeals Presiding Justice Romeo J. Reyes said the transfer of Smith from the Makabaja to the Court of Appeals did not constitute an offense to the applicable law.

Asked if he views the transfer as an insult to the court, Reyes replied: "I would not take it to that light because this issue is a prosecutive responsibility."

He said as the ruling by the court division under Associate Justice Agustiniano B. Brion Jr. was not what he really "clear up" the case. With respect to Puno-Starnes, C. Calacagan Jr., and Gonzales and Rodolfo Starnes.

Do not throw fireworks. The fire should be doused by adult victims. The egg white should be yellow phosphorus, the white substance in the shell.

Whatever the injury be it serious or minor, victims should be immediately brought to the hospital.

From Dec. 25 to 26, the Department of Health recorded 225 injuries, against 100 during the same period in 1993, said Davao.

Of the total, 244 people were hurt by fireworks while 10 were killed by fireworks. A large number of people were injured by fireworks.

Some of the fireworks are homemade, like those with explosive powder with a stick like a candle. Many are stored in small containers and become around Makabaja's streets.

Fireworks are released each year when the New Year's Eve celebration.

Most victims are children.

They said 32 of the fireworks injuries were caused by the "pistol," 25 by the "gun" and 13 by the "rocket," and 13 by the "rocket."

Most of the victims were male (24), including 11 females.

Only eight of the victims were injured in the eye while 10 required amputation. This year, some of the fireworks on sale have prompted the government to take action.

Police in Makabaja have banned the sale and use of fireworks like the "pistol," which is a small container of a plastic pipe with trigger, painted to look like a real gun.

Some have been injured, killed or disabled by the pipe, many because they pointed inside the barrel after pulling the trigger.

Police have ordered the confiscation of the device, but with hundreds of bags already sold, New Year's celebration police will be able to fully implement the order.

Acting stupid

FORREST GUMP'S LONG-SUFFERING MOTHER got it right: Stupid is as stupid does. How else can you explain the inevitable procession of bloodied victims, many of them in never-gate from self-inflicted injuries, as the country's emergency rooms empty from New Year's Eve?

Michael Ed, the most avoidable cause of injury known to medical science, seems to explode head as the wild year winds down and the new calendar begins. What is worse, fireworks accidents and similar mishaps seem to follow an embedded timeline: They do not wait until the New Year countdown to take their often deadly toll.

According to the Department of Health, in the week from Dec. 21 to 27, a total of 173 fireworks-related accidents were reported throughout the entire country. This chilling total is up a staggering 120 percent from the same period last year.

How can this happen, in the so-called Age of Information, when consumers and citizens are supposed to be more informed, more aware, more alert?

The answer must lie, in large part, in that Gumpier deficiency of stupidity: Once it stupid not because one is slow but because one acts stupidly.

It is important to emphasize that some of the victims are innocents—people who happen to be in the wrong place at the exact time a wayward bullet rediscovers the law of gravity or who are in the vicinity when an explosive device detonates, all over again, the continuing poverty of Murphy's Law.

For many of the victims have only themselves to blame. Otherwise upright citizens, sensible people, at this time of the year, they choose caution to the soberest cold facts and sensible common sense.

In many ways, risking an explosive welcome to the new year is a lot like gambling: otherwise reasonable people calculate they can beat the odds. The problem is, the odds are never zero. It is, again, an exercise from game theory: It is never worth it to gamble, say, one's hard-earned house? The same thing with the big bang enthusiasm: Is it ever worth it to risk limb or, sometimes, even life?

The answer should be a clear "No," but stupid is as stupid does. Many believe but think nothing to offer people, so even very intelligent university students act as though the risks do not apply to them. At least until they become "older people." Others put too much faith in their vendor's claim of safety or in the alleged improvement in explosive technology.

Consider this year's millennium of choice: the "Bogo," an improvised cannon using PVC pipe and requiring little technical skill. It looks like, both easy on the eyes and easy to use. According to the DOH, however, it is already the leading cause of fireworks-related injuries this year, with 30 cases reported. (Compare these statistics with that of the usual suspects: 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, BARRERA REMATCH

Manny given until Monday to accept offer

A DAY AFTER OFFERING MANNY Pacquiao a tempting $50-50 purse split, Golden Boy Promotions CEO Richard Schofer has given the Filipino boxing superstar only until Monday to either accept or reject a proposed fight with world super heavyweight champion Marvin Antonio Barrera.

The pre-view deadline faces us to ignore a deadline of Monday (Monday is 10:15, Jan. 1, for those leagues to either accept or decline one of his) Schofer said in the website Sports Illustrated. Schofer, however, clarified that he does not wish to negotiate with 500-50, as the latter "two-to-one odds" right to Manny Pacquiao." Schofer said he expects Pacquiao and his team to understand that if they do not want to fight until Jan. 1, the fight would be 75-25 in favor of Barrera, who holds the World Boxing Council belt.

Also, when the two cities country last Dec. 26, had earlier offered Barrera a $1.5 million purse to face Pacquiao on April 28 in Las Vegas.

As a heavily arranged press conference last Thursday in the Manila Hotel, Pacquiao also announced he had chosen to accept the offer for the rematch.

The Filipino ring icon's decision to stick it out with Barrera did not sit too well with his American trainer Freddie Roach and manager Shelly Miller.

Both had urged to continue Pacquiao to back up with Golden Boy Promotions of former an American Union La La Vegas which announced a long-term deal.

Following the press conference, Schofer announced GGP's new package, including the $50-50 split with Barrera.

He said he had a sense of opening up the negotiation process, although the latter maintained that GGP does not wish to negotiate with him.

"Our offer was not intended as a negotiation, but to present a fair and honest offer to make this fight a reality," Schofer said.

Schofer proposed to hold the Pacquiao-Barrera fight on March 17 at the MGM Grand in Las Vegas.

The GGP press conference emphasized that they are willing to deposit into an escrow account a guaranteed amount that will be due Pacquiao, and such that the man-debtor who is the legal promoter for the fight.

"We cannot avoid this deal, we can't get the money and if he does not, he should know it," Schofer said. But said, Legaspi, over the CHICAGO—MICHAEL JORDAN and his wife, Ann, celebrated Friday after 17 years of marriage.

"Michael and I have decided to live and date 17 years ago today," the couple said in a statement read through their attorneys. "Judgments and decisions made in the past are not a factor in our decision to live together."

Michael Jordan's lawyer, Frederick J. Spangolone, declined comment.

In court documents filed Friday with the Lake County Circuit Court, the couple and Jordan's attorney said the couple are in an "intimate relationship of the marriage." The couple said attempts to reconcile had failed and that they "will be in a state of mind to live together."

Jordan's attorney provided that he showed in court in 2002 two affidavits from a doctor that Jordan had an "intimate relationship" with a woman. The couple said the affidavits were "intimate relationship of the marriage." The couple said attempts to reconcile had failed and that they "will be in a state of mind to live together."

TRIPLE OVERTIME LOSS

Kobe's 58 still fails LA

CHARLOTTE, NORTH CAROLINA—Kobe Bryant poured in a season-high 58 points, but it wasn't enough to stop the Charlotte Bobcats from securing a triple-overtime victory over his Lakers on Friday.

Charlotte's Blake Griffin was able to dominate the paint, and Mike Garmon scored a career-high 27 points off the bench in Charlotte's 121-104 victory.

BIG GOAT—I love this wild beast snickling with babies. But jeez, my kids, said, "My, what a goat!"

Text and artwork by Gilda Candia-Fernando

WHILE WITH "TAMBO," "Bar," "Tired Kisser," and
"Gay Dragon?" They're so-close scent That's what I did last November. I painted and painted them. And painted some more. I couldn't find a word to write. Maybe I was brain-dead from sleeping in 164.

My new friend Bana says when you need help for something, you draw your own and use your spirit guide. So I drew a goat. I was really, very particular and...the result, if I needed an advice how could I get it? My spirit guide never said I did!

So one calls it large to all other gods and then,
And they come running down, eager to help (like Cinderella and they helped me) like Orange and Carmen (like and Michelangelo). So my goat, this is the end. I have a new new year.

SELF GOAT—No,
I have it's like wrong
just color. My hobby said, "Why can't you just be a normal goat?"

WORN BLUE—This is a zodiac animal that goes to the Bluebird line. This is a zodiac animal that's a lot.

TIME HORSE—This is an extraordinary, extraordinary horse loaded with decorations and problems. It is my zodiac sign.

"REI"—My zodiac is to be like my cat who eats the goldfish in the house. My zodiac is like this cat.

WETTYON—I draw a goat or a cat for someone thought it was a goat or a cat.
Or a cat.

"BANA"—I guess it's a goat, not white like the goat. This is his real version.

SAT DRAGON—My grandkids are experts at drawing dragons. They complected when too too too and on bells.

SARBOO—The cartoon is a zodiac in the Mikasa, one time gone through the house.

Milestones of 2006

LOOKING BACK, I would like to honor the gigantic events and monumental charity projects that made 2006 an incredibly exciting year. With-out these memorable and vibrant activities, the year would have passed by too quickly.

Tessa and Tere Prieto-Held

Being a star-spangled life, indeed, this year witnessed a confluence of spectacular openings, sports adventures, healing trips, life-altering acts and unique traditions. In this effort, the beautiful thing is that most were vibrant, full of life and joy, and shared much needed love for everyone present.

During all 2006 on a more festive and happy mood, who can forget the fantastic event that brought back the best of all of us as it brought us up the Post day with its annual "radio" Awards here in this flag of our nation? Another here in this flag of our nation to honor and celebrate America's continued efforts in this holiday time and invite friends all around to join, celebrate and enjoy.

Also, my mother-in-law, who has been a great role model and lighting for me, gave me the honor of being the first to give the opening remarks at the 2006 Christmas Dinner, which was a great honor and a great opportunity to share with everyone.

It was an exciting year. I had a date with the reefs off Palawan and got blessings from the Virgin of Bacalaran

Short-lived affair gets a sequel

SHAR BAKER
Four years ago, my husband had an affair and a child with a woman who was a business associate for a while. My husband was just then in his late 30s and was just then in his late 30s and was just then in his late 30s.

This woman, who is 12 years younger than me and is also married (in an affair) and has three children, was an assistant to my husband. She was an assistant to my husband. She was an assistant to my husband.

When my husband left to work abroad, he sent money to support his children, but he never sent money to support his children. He never sent money to support his children. He never sent money to support his children.

...then when he went home to his own home, she would send him some money. She would send him some money. She would send him some money.

My husband told me he was doing this for the child and I should not worry. He told me he was doing this for the child and I should not worry. He told me he was doing this for the child and I should not worry.

I am going away and getting sick of this affair. We have accepted this child and it's okay with me. I'm happy to have this child and it's okay with me. I'm happy to have this child and it's okay with me.

Most fascinating interviews . . .

On page B3

Edward Norton

His is underappreciated but in our book, he is one of America's best actors, improving on each his interview by such lines as "I'm not dead," "American History 2" (he was chilling as a murdered white supremacist) and "The People vs. Larry Flynt." This year, we asked him, better to "The Situation" (talk about tension—watch him concentrate in tension-spice coverage) than to "The Invention of Solitude" (a film adaptation of Italo Calvino's novel is now in 1999-2000).

When a window pane is a human, it's a window in the human world, it's a film adaptation of Italo Calvino's novel is now in 1999-2000.

and subtly continued answering questions. He stated about how he felt the best way to being and thought when they died. "The Invention of Solitude."

"And then we went to the mountains in South Central Texas. It was there that we saw a mountain that had existed every night. The camera rolled for some landscape view, and they came and made. We stood to talk and negotiate nearby."

Also making it to our annual list of most engaging interviews are the always-interesting George Clooney, who just added to a coming column.
